SISSA Master’s course in Science Communication “Franco Prattico” releases the new occupational data and open the call for applications for the next academic year

18 May 2017

Former students of the professional Master’s course in Science Communications “Franco Prattico” (MCS) at SISSA have an employment rate that approaches 100%. A recent survey by the independent research institute Ixé shows that 95% of them are employed, 60% are working in science communication. Among the many job opportunities offered by MCS, 42% of those employed in science communication works in science journalism, 31% in institutional communication, 30% in publishing and 21,5% in training and education (some are working in more areas at the same time). 97,7% of former students is satisfied of the experience with the course.
A few days after launching the call for applications for the next academic year, MCS proves once more to be the best course in its field in Italy – besides being the oldest one – with very positive employment rate and a training offer of top quality. Subscriptions will close on 26 September 2017 at 12 am. Applicants can register online at http://mcs.sissa.it/iscrizione

USEFUL LINKS:
Master’s structure: http://mcs.sissa.it/la-struttura-del-master
Employment survey: http://mcs.sissa.it/dopo-il-master
Application form: http://mcs.sissa.it/iscrizione

IMAGE:
Credits: Divulgando srl

CONTACTS:
Nico Pitrelli
pitrelli@sissa.it
Tel. +39 0403787462 Cell. +39 3391337950

Chiara Saviane
saviane@sissa.it
Tel. +39 0403787230 Cell. +39 3337675962

https://www.facebook.com/sissa.school/
@Sissaschool

More information about SISSA: https://www.sissa.it/