

Andrea Gentile

Journalist & Science Editor - Caposervizio - Wired Italy

agentile81@gmail.com

Summary

As a professional scientific journalist I am deeply interested in the involvement of science in real life. During my daily activity at Wired I focus my attention on the everyday consequences of uninformed scientific decisions (such for examples the Stamina case in Italy, or hoaxes such as the vaccine-autism relation). On the other hand, I enjoy discovering the hidden science surrounding us, as the book I wrote shows (La scienza sotto l'ombrellone - The science of the beach). I am also very fond of pop culture (comics, cinema and tv series).

Experience

Science Editor (caposervizio) at Wired at edizioni conde nast

October 2010 - Present

My main topic as a journalist is science for both print and digital edition of Wired Italy.

I am the news editor for science, politics, technology, cinema, tv series and culture for Wired.it (<http://wired.it>, <http://www.wired.it/author/agentile/>) and for Wired Italy magazine.

I was also one of the anchormen for the Wired video feature 3NDS (<http://www.wired.it/topic/3nds/>).

Visiting Teacher at SISSA

May 2010 - April 2013 (2 years 11 months)

Once a year I taught students how to make a radio program in the MSc in Communication of Science

Editorial staff

March 2009 - October 2010 (1 year 7 months)

I was part of the editorial staff for the daily science radio national program Radio3 Scienza

Editor

July 2008 - February 2009 (7 months)

I worked as an editor for the online magazine Galileo, also covering news pieces for l'Espresso, Le scienze and Mente e Cervello magazines.

Education

Scuola Internazionale Superiore di Studi Avanzati di Trieste

MSc, Communication of Science, 2007 - 2009

Sapienza Università di Roma

MSc, Computational Neuroscience, 2004 - 2007

Sapienza Università di Roma

BA, Cognitive Psychology, 2001 - 2004

Honors and Awards

Premio “Politiche sanitarie” - Premio Giornalistico O.Ma.R per le malattie e i tumori rari

Andrea Gentile

Journalist & Science Editor - Caposervizio - Wired Italy

agentile81@gmail.com

Contact Andrea on LinkedIn